

DAVID MAINZ
Staff Writer

Sunday, October 25, 2020 // Serving Atlantic, Cape May, Cumberland

POLICING

Continued from A1

enforcement interacts with people of color, especially young men. Robinson, 26, of Camden, is in family members who were police officers. Robinson said it was only that older experiences with law enforcement that left him with questions and a different understanding of how he may be perceived.

“When I started to travel from different areas, I started to realize that I’m looked more like an outsider,” said Robinson, who went to college about an hour away from home at Rowan University in Glassboro. “So as I got older, I started to be more wary of my experience and interactions with the police.”

Irvin Moreno-Rodriguez said the NAACP chapter’s education committee. Moreno-Rodriguez said the